While the Department of Education and the University look to the family as the first resource for financing the education of a dependent student (as defined by the Department of Education), providing parental information on the aid application does not obligate parents to provide financial support. If at all possible, we encourage families to work toward providing all requested information so students can secure the best possible financial aid package. All information is kept confidential in accordance with the Federal Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA).

PARENTAL STATEMENT

I/we, the custodial parent(s), refuse to provide financial information for the above student to satisfy the requirements of the Free Application for Federal Student Aid. I/we also certify that we refuse to provide any financial support for the above student and that our financial support ended on ____/____/____.

If parental information is not provided, student financial aid eligibility for the year is limited to Unsubsidized Federal Direct Loans in the amounts below.

Freshmen: $5,500

Sophomore: $6,500

Junior/Senior: $7,500

The unsubsidized loan accrues interest while students are in school and the amounts available do not cover estimated costs. Students may also apply for non-federal educational loans, which usually require a credit-worthy co-signer and accrue interest while the student is enrolled.
